

Meeting Sfath

Based on the book "From the depths of space, contact with the Plejaren" – Billy Meier.

1

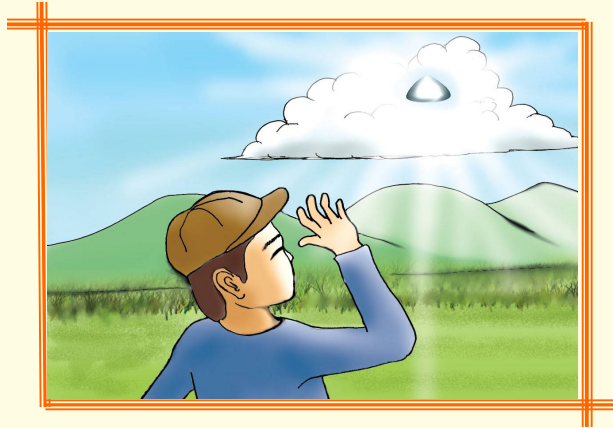

Our story begins with a boy named Eduard Albert Meier who lived in Bülach, a small village in Switzerland.

When he was just five years old some very interesting and unusual events began to occur in his life. One day young Eduard was playing in the lush green meadow near his house when suddenly a thought within his mind gave him an urge to look up. He saw fluffy white clouds floating along slowly in the blue sky. There was also a gentle spring breeze blowing. Suddenly over the nearest mountain, Eduard saw a shimmering light appear beneath a small cloud.

It projected a beam of light from high up towards him, and when it approached it turned out to be a large triangle. In its front behind a window Eduard saw a young woman who was waving to him.

He felt the urge to walk towards the triangle, but suddenly he heard a shrill whistle – and the triangular object was gone. It seemed as if the air had simply swallowed it up all of a sudden; it had simply disappeared in the blink of an eye.

A few days later, Eduard was sitting by the river watching the fish swim by when suddenly a metallic ball appeared in the blue sky floating above the treetops. The ball was reflecting the bright sunlight when he noticed that it was pear-shaped. At some distance away it descended slowly towards the ground until it was hovering just above it. Eduard decided to move closer to get a better look.

He noticed that it was made of metal and it seemed to have no windows.

Feeling both surprised and intrigued by the sudden appearance of the strange-looking pear-shaped craft shimmering in the sunlight.

He noticed a doorway appear and an old man stepped out of the brightly lit interior of the silvery ship onto a hovering disc-like platform that seemed to come from underneath the doorway.

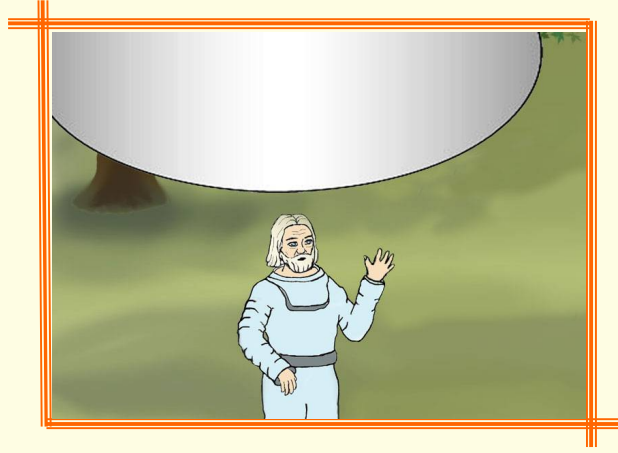

The platform slowly descended almost to the ground and the old man smiled a friendly smile at Eduard and then gestured to him to climb on to the platform.

The man looked very old, older than any man Eduard had ever seen before, even older than his own grandparents. The old man wore a shimmering silvery gown and had a short white beard. His blue eyes were peaceful and calm.

6

No words were necessary as a voice came into Eduard's head that sounded somehow familiar and gentle that told him that his name was Sfath.

Then with complete silence the platform rose up to the craft allowing little Eduard to step inside, and then the platform disappeared into a slot under the doorway.

Eduard looked around him to find many different and strange looking devices that could have been a type of computer. There were also small windows through which he was able to see outside. The old man pressed a button on one of the devices and suddenly the walls of the space craft became transparent whereby he could see the meadows below, the sky above and everything else that was already familiar to him.

8

Silently, the craft floated higher and higher in the air and the village where Eduard lived was soon looking very small and far away.

After traveling a little while in this pear shaped craft, it descended at the edge of the forest without the little boy feeling anything unusual. Spath gestured Eduard to get out onto the platform once again, which he obliged, and then he was brought back down to the ground. Eduard walked just few steps away from the pear-shaped ship when the craft suddenly shot straight up into the sky and quietly disappeared behind the clouds.

Eduard hurried home because he was concerned realizing that his parents must be worried about him for he had been gone a few hours without telling anybody where he went.

As time went by, there were several other occasions when Eduard met with Sfath. The purpose of these meetings was to give young Eduard a great deal of knowledge about many subjects in order to prepare him for his main mission to pass the knowledge onto the people of Earth. Sfath also taught him about historical events that would occur in the future and also scientific information, but he also told Eduard about his past personalities and previous lives.

Eduard being only a five year old child, became very intelligent and knowledgeable, similar in intelligence to a person in their thirties.

*During one of their meetings Sfath said:
"Eduard, you must learn about the human spirit and its valuable purpose in life, for yourself and also for all of Earth's humanity".*

13

*A day came when Sfath spoke to young Eduard telepathically for the last time and said his last goodbye, never to return again,
for Sfath was reaching the end of his long life
of more than 1100 years.*

Only a few hours after Sfath's goodbye, on Eduard's 16th birthday, the 3rd of February 1953, a new voice sounded in his head. It was a very different voice as it was the voice of an extraterrestrial woman named Asket who came from the DAL Universe. Asket became Eduard's new teacher who guided him until he was 27 years old.
